Services have been boosted and the critical care capacity increased with the $20 million expansion to Angliss Hospital at the foot of the Dandenong Ranges in Melbourne. An extensive selection of Gerflor flooring provides practical, low maintenance solutions in striking designs and colors that complement the modern design aesthetic throughout. Funded by the Victorian State Government, the project involved construction of a fourth level above the main hospital building to house a 14 bed critical care unit.

Paediatric facilities were also improved allowing an increase in short stay beds for younger patients. This expansion will reduce the number of patient transfers from Angliss Hospital to Maroondah Hospital and Box Hill Hospital each year.

The hospital expansion delivered an increase of 20 beds, along with significant improvements to the overall clinical environment.
